We are often asked to advise on complex and ground-breaking IP issues. For instance, we have advised on one of the first transactions in Malaysia involving IP collateralisation, which required our knowledge in the area of IP valuation and securitisation. Through our network of Baker & McKenzie offices in over 40 countries, we can assist clients in coordinating registration, protection and enforcement of their IP assets. We are able to call on a ready-made, ready-to-go global team to provide the services and solutions clients need. With a collaborative culture and advanced technologies, we work seamlessly across borders, time zones and markets to help clients' company grow and protect the value of its IP anywhere in the world.

Our IP enforcement and anti-counterfeiting practice is second to none. We assist with the enforcement of IP rights in a variety of ways, including public education and infringement warnings, private litigation, private investigations, court-sanctioned search-and-seizure raids, and by assisting clients to liaise with investigators and government enforcement agencies (including customs and police officials) to conduct investigations, and obtain public prosecution and administrative action against infringers. To be effective, the anti-counterfeiting measures often require close co-ordination between practitioners in various countries and we have extensive experience of establishing international enforcement programmes which are tailored to clients' needs.
